經 114年10月29 日台文所114學年度第2次所務會議討論通過(畢業條件)

經114年11月4日文學院114學年度第1次院務會議討論通過(畢業條件)

經115年1月8日本校114學年度第1學期第2次臨時校課程委員會會議討論通過(課程架構)

1. Master' s students must complete 32 credits and meet all requirements for thesis submission. With the advisor' s approval, they may apply for the thesis oral examination within the period specified by the university.
2. "Thesis Guidance (I)" and "Thesis Guidance (II)" are each worth 3 credits but have 0 class hours and are not counted toward the graduation credit requirement.
3. Graduate students in their second year or above in the Department of Taiwanese Literature may, with the advisor' s approval, take courses at other universities (departments). Up to 6 credits may be recognized as graduation credits. Students must fill out the "Application Form for Taking Courses at Other Departments/Universities" from the Department of Taiwanese Literature, National Changhua University of Education.
4. Students in the teacher training program who take courses under the "Minnan (Hokkien) Language Specialization" — covering the three categories "Linguistic Knowledge," "Minnan Language Communication Skills," and "Minnan Language Teaching" — may count up to 10 credits from these courses toward their graduation requirement.
5. The courses "Teaching Materials and Methods for Minnan Language," "Minnan Language Teaching Practicum," and "Minnan Language Teaching Application and Practice" are considered professional education subjects. For teacher training students, these courses do not count toward graduation credits and must be handled according to the university' s Regulations for Teacher Education Programs and related policies.
6. Courses with double underlines 「__」 are jointly offered with the Department of Chinese Literature. Students of the Department of Taiwanese Literature may still take these courses, and the credits will be counted. However, at least half of the total credits must be earned from courses offered by the Department of Taiwanese Literature.
7. The study period for the master' s program is between one and four years.
8. According to university regulations, students must register for at least one course (including the thesis) each semester after enrollment; otherwise, they must apply for a leave of absence. Students who have already completed the minimum required graduation credits but are still writing their thesis must enroll in "Thesis" every semester starting from the third academic year.
9. Any newly established courses offered by the Department of Taiwanese Literature Master' s Program (regardless of semester) may be counted as graduation credits.
10. During their coursework, first- and second-year master' s students must work at least 8 hours per semester in departmental administrative assistance. Compensation will be provided according to the student assistantship standard.
11. Master' s students must attend at least 8 academic conferences (domestic or international) related to their field and submit written reflections on them.
12. Students must write reading reports on three major scholarly works relevant to their thesis topic, and these works must be approved by their advisor.
13. Students must publish at least one paper in an academic conference or journal (domestic or international) before applying for the thesis oral examination. Each additional publication may be used to replace attendance at three conferences.
14. Before applying for the degree examination, students must complete and pass the "Academic Research Ethics Education" online course offered by the Taiwan Academic Ethics Education Resource Center.
15. The total credits earned from distance learning courses may not exceed one-half of the total required graduation credits
